This explanation coming from such a source should have been deemed satisfactory and a nominal fine inflicted. I am aware that the colony is in want of funds, but I fail to see the pripriety of making the Police Court a source of revenue by the infliction of heavy fines for ... technical breaches of Municipal or what ought be Municipal Ordinances, with the alternative of two menths hard labour. It is strange that not one of the papers has commented upon this quarterdeck justice and still more strange that the firm of Butterfield and Swire should not have appealed against the decision to the Supreme Court. I feel certain that if they had done so the fine would either have been remitted altogether or a nomin d She inflicted and that the Magistrate's alterna-

If the Acting Chief Justice is of opinion, and rightly of opinion, that even an bonest hard working boatman or coolie should not be committed to a felon's jail to associate with criminals because he cannot or fails to pay a fine for some breach of traffic or barbour regulations, I wonder what his opinion would be of the fact that the representative of a firm which has porhage done more for this colony than any other should be sentenced to a fine, with the alternative of two months' hard labour. A severe sentence was pressed for by that geneus of the first water Mr. Tooker, but he was no doubt soting under orders from his chief, Mr. Francis A. TIENTSIN.

General Woi, who arrived in Paking early in the week, has been found guilty of gross cowardice by the Board of Punishments and condemned to death. The Emperor approved of the death sentence and he was executed on Thursday last. It is stated that General Wei's brother escaped to Shanghai, baving had his head shaved and become monk, the Chinese law prohibiting the decapitation of mouks. It is also stated that General Yeb and Kung Taotal are under sentence of death and will also be beheaded.

The three-masted schooner American, which will be remembered left Glasgow for Taku wit a full cargo of coment and railway material etc. on 17th May last, is now undergoing repairs at Shengbai. The vessel encountered very stormy weather on the passage out, necessitating the jettisching of some of her cargo. If. as is very probable, water got down below, the cargo will have antiered more or less damage. We understand some consignees have arranged to take delivery at Shang hai, under average bond.

We are told that the Chinese authorities are registering the names of all natives amployed by foreigners either in offices or domestic and other service, with what object is not apparent. As the Chinese are not much given to the collection of statistical information-for social or tor to be enjoyed as soon as his back is turned ? January, General Sung Ching memorialized by telegraph that Chang Kao-youn, the Brigade General of Feng Chow-chen, in the province of Shangtung, did not distinguish himself in the battle with the Japanese, and that Han Pong-tao delayed the reinforcement at that time. A decree published in the Poking Gazette of Mondecree published in the Poking Gazette of Mon-day last orders that the Board of Punishments fined in such a manner as will really make him H. & K. Wharf & G. consider the penalty to be paid by Chang Kaoynan and Han Poug-tao and adds that General Sung Ching, being unable to gain the victory, should also be punished as the Board may judge

It is currently reported amongst the Chinese in Peking that all the Chinese servants formerly employed in the Japanese Legation have been imprisoned and are about to be subjected to the usual hideous fortures for the purpose of making them confess beving given information to their former masters. It is impossible to believe that doniestic servints, such as "boys," cooks, and coolies, could have had any information of any importance, though it is quite easy to understand that Chinese officials would be capable of such baseness as is imputed to these poor ignorant underlings. It is perfectly well known now that the Japanese had their spire in all directions throughout the convery; who went t work selentifically and systematically to get in formation. They did not map out the country from information supplied by "boy" habe and stupid opium suckers, but relied on their own people. The charge is ridiculous. If this abhorrent cruelty is to be practised on these poor creatures it is for the purpose of withdrawing or diverting suspicion from much higher placed persons. Already, we are told, the porter of the Legation, whose sole duty was to shut and open the door, has been decapitated. We hope the whole of this story is unitrue, but the native evidently believe it. Surely at P. king such frightful barbarity cannot be tolerated under the a protest on their part against such borrid crime. Another account says only "some" of the servants have been imprisoned and that the porter is still alive. The ostensible charge against them is that they accompanied Japanese officials and others when they were making enquiries in different places in and round Peking. But how their satute employers? - Peking and Tientsin Times.

THE BAZAAR MASTER.

'I he year that has lately closed has seen, besides a great many other things, a singular change in Many years ago, close on a quarter of a century. he ceased to be officially known as a Bassar Master and became a Cantonment Magistrate. But the change was mainly one of official nomenclature. To the natives he was always the Bazaar Master Sabab, and he sat in the seat of justice and administer I the law seconding to the light of research for he was absolutely without any previous legal studies or training. from Mercury. Sold in Boxes, 4s. 6d. each, by of life to muddle hims if with books of law or throughout the World. Proprietors: THE LINto attempt to penetrate the mysteries of the Penal Code. The Bazzar Master, or Cantonment Magistrate, was very commonly a cavelry officer, who was not a success in his brauch of the service, but who had to be provided for somehow, and so it was thought best to make him a Cantoument Magistrate. He could not do any harm there, said the authorities. . Or he was an officer on general duty who had been drawing his pay in peace and quiet for some vears in a quiet up country station, reading his paper, smoking his cherouts, managing the Gymkhana, and retailing the local gossip to all and sundry. Suddenly the flerce light of authority [was turned on the old colonel thus] harmlessly and ever usefully employed. And anthority declared that he was drawing his pay Nagasaki for doing nothing and that this sort of thing Shanghai must not be allowed to go on any longer. But Freehow what was to be done with him? It was obviously impossible to give the old colonel a regiment or to put him on the staff. What then remained? Whr. he must be made a !! fougkong...... Cantonment Magistrate, and a Cantonment Victoria Peak.... Magistrate be was made accordingly, and Gap Rock he was bundled off to a Cantonment, Soibow where he administered justice to the Hairhors assembled natives, and all men admired the Bolizmo. wisdom and meaf of the new Bassar Master Manile Saheb. This then, is the department on which the Government of India has laid its hands and which it has changed and reorganised out of all Windipostock ... knowledge. Perhaps the Cantonment Magistrate's department hardly kept pace with the times; but let us say, in justice to it, that in spite of the singular and haphasard method of Amoy its recruitment, the old Bassar Masters, or Anplug Cantonment Magistrates, were an upright and impartial body of men and gave general satisfaction. They cared little for law, but they mared much for justice, and they gave their Gap Rock decisions in a plain straightforward way that Macao suited the antives who came to their Courts, and diothew who were quite content with the Saheb's de lisiphong cisions. But the department, as thus constituted, has come to an end. It is now to be recruited by young and ambitious officers, who aspire to the Judge Advocate's department: it is to be Moderate N.E. winds : overcast, rais at times. under the Governor-General in Council himself. and beneaforth Cantonment Magietrates are to be moved from one Presidency to another in the same manner as Political Officers, and will be independent of the Governor of their own or any other Presidency. In fact, to quote the concluding words of the resolution of the Government of India which makes all these vital changes; -" It is decided that the officers serving in the Cantonment Medistrapies be formed into an Imperial Service under the Home Department of the Government of India, to which applications for leave of absence for more than three months should be made through the Local overnment, and to which all communications or communications oncerning vacancies of more than that period bould be made."

Since then the old year and the Government of India tegether have made an end of the Bazzar Master, or Cantonment Magistrate, as he used to flourish under the old conditions, and have the flourish under the old conditions, and have the shown that another kind of article altogether, the Bassar Master of bygone days deserves to be aketohed before he be clean forgotten altogother. altogether and turn vegetarians." Now these three letters placed our poor Bassar Master in the following dilemma. Either he must time the gowlee, the baker, and the butcher, or he must quarrel with the three ladies who have lodged the complaints and must submit to have it given, out at the band-stand that evening that of all the incompetent Bassar Masters that ever came to the place he, Major Stout, is far and away the most incompetent; and also that he favours the natives and goes against his own countrymen on every possible cocasion. He sends his peon for the three erring tradesmen and orders the gowles at once to take over good milk to the first complainant, the baker to supply a substantial loaf to number two, and threatens the butcher with all kinds of penalties if he ever kills goat for mutton again, though as a matter of fact he does not think himself that. there is very much to complain of in either milk, bread, or meat. Then he has to snawer the three letters, which he does with the feeling that since he has fired polody his explanations will be received with scorn, and finally he settles down to the regular work of the day. This promises to be both long and intricate. There are about twenty natives in Court, half squatting down on one side and half on the other, and both exchanging looks as if they would like to My at each other. It Watson & Ch., A. S., seems there was a free fight in the bazaar last night, and the rival parties are now bringing eyes of the Ministers of Foreign Powers without counter charges each against the other. It will be necessary for his Honour, says the head clerk, who loves this sort of thing, to take down each man's deposition, twenty in all. His Honour grouns audibly. It is now balt-past one and at two he is to tiffin at the Artil lary Mess, where they have some particularly five old Madeira. It would be a pity to miss a could these poor creature storsee the objects of good tiffin over a trumpory quarrel of this sort, "Luximon," he says to his head clerk, "I have an important engagement at two colock punetually, so please let the litigants know that their case is adjourned until this day week-by which time (adds his Honont to himself; these silly folk will have arranged their quarrel and I shall hear no more of it." And so. amidst. general saleaming, the Baster Master administration of this vast land of India. The goes off to his tifflu at the Artillery Mess, with Bazzar Master is not only dead, but buried. the air of a man who has done a good morning's work. Is it any wonder that he has become numbered with the things of the past ?- Times | Sat
